WHEREVER we travel in the world, I believe a little piece of that place remains with you when you return home. Somehow, it becomes entrenched in our hearts and souls and we can't help but shift. Sometimes these shifts are huge, forcing us to reassess how we live our lives, but often they are subtle. Simple reminders of the many things for which we have to be grateful. I've been home from the Solomon Islands for a week now, and it's now become part of my DNA. Please enjoy this snapshot of the Solomons where the colours are vibrant...
